Objective	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Improvement in access and usage of high-quality sanitary napkins to adolescent girls in rural areas. • To safe disposal of sanitary pads in an environmentally friendly manner. • To growing awareness among women about feminine hygiene has spurred the demand for sanitary napkins across the globe.
Brief Report	It is in this spirit that MIET organized one day sanitary pad distribution programme. It was organized by Ms.Rachna Sharma at Sant Vinova Public Inter College Vaidpura, Sector-10, Greater Noida. Ms. Rachna Sharma spoke about the necessity and importance of using sanitary napkins among young girls. Sanitary napkins are used by women during their menstrual cycle. They ensure hygiene, comfort and confidence in women. They are a great boon to women as it assists them during their cycle. Only about 12% of menstruating women in India use sanitary pads. The rest use unhygienic material such as cloth, leaves and other material which is hazardous to their health. Sanitary pads were gifted to about 150 girls of school. The event was held with great zeal and enthusiasm. Students and teachers also participated enthusiastically. MIET, Greater Noida tried to create awareness about the use of sanitary pads. It aims to help underprivileged young girls and women who cannot afford sanitary napkins. Lack of menstrual hygiene management is a major reason for majority of the girl's skipping schools during their periods and eventually dropping out at an early age and missing out on their education. Menstruation and menstrual hygiene related discussions are still not common in the Indian villages and across a large section of the urban society even now.
Outcome	Girls were aware about hygiene, and promise to not to hide with their mother and female teacher about this.
